Concerning Caucasus.

(New York Tribune.)

The complete success of the caucas system is the only possibility for the re-election of our United States Senators. They are all Republicans—Hamlin in Michigan, Churchill in Michigan, carpenter in Wisconsin and Blaine in Minnesota. In each case, if the members of the Legislature were permitted to vote for whomsoever they pleased, the present incumbent would be easily defeated. But if all the Republican members in either legislature consent to obey the caucas command, the present Senator will probably squeeze in again by a very small vote. It needs no argument to show that the popular will can be best obeyed by voting for candidates in open, since without any caucas limitations. The caucas is the last refuge for politicians without popular support, and ought to have been abolished long ago. A few men with backsbones can end its hideous course very summarily. It looks in nearly all of the States named as if there were men waiting to seize so good an opportunity.

French and German Losses in the Late War.

(New York Times.)

M. Cheval, Medical Inspector General of the French army, gives the losses sustained by the French in the war with Germany to have been as follows: Killed, disappeared, or died of wounds and diseases, 143,000; men disabled by marching, 11,321; 11,914 missing are treated as dead. These figures include 2,281 officers killed or who died of wounds and disease and 96 missing, with 17,210 prisoners who died in Germany, 4,010 in Switzerland and 121 in France. The total loss 17,259 deaths, the occurrence in captivity only 1,220 soldiers were killed at Gravelotte, the bloodiest battle of the war.

The German losses were: killed or died of wounds and disease, 91,711; missing and treated as dead, 4,900; wounded, 125,367. To these have to be added 1,765 killed, 6,920 wounded, and 1,560 missing in skirmishes, patrols, and other engagements. The Germans had 44,000 deaths, the French, 138,871; the Germans 127,000, wounded, the French 141,000. The total loss 142,000, as detailed by Le Monde—that is, French detective-sacks, boots, and guitars while the Germans suffered but little from this cause. M. Cheval shows that in the last war, disease was more fatal than the sword, this being partly attributed to commissariat, outfit, and hospital shortcomings.

Treatment of Calico Prints.

The English calico manufacturers are introducing the new machine which promises to effect such a revolution in the system now in vogue for sewing, stretching, printing and stamping calico prints. According to the plan now in operation the different lengths of prints are sewn together in such a manner that the pattern is of uniform width necessarily lost in the process. Thus in a roll of fabric measuring fifty yards, there is known to be about half a yard lost at each end, owing to the piecing and scrapping of the cloth which the present system involves.

This new apparatus consists of a large circular rotating feed wheel, which acts as a sewing machine, two wheels revolve, the central plate, called the middle ring, remaining stationary, and upon the outer ring the prints are sewn.

By the action of the two revolving wheels, the cloth is kept taut, and everything which passes through it is kept free from puckering, so that there is no narrowing and consequent loss of material, which occurs under the present mode.

The saving thus effected is found to be, in all cases, at least one cent, and in many instances is two per cent.

Attached to this machine is a self-cutting spooler, so that simultaneously with the operation of sewing and cutting, the pattern kind of work is done.

The cutting portion of the machine is very effective. Under the present system there is often, also, a very large remnant left between the seam and the edge of the piece, which prevents the proper marking of the pattern; but this is quite eliminated by the new apparatus, which sews directly on the pattern, which renders it of great practical value to calico manufacturers.

A Drop of Joy in Every Word.

Flemington, N. J., June 25, 1874.

Dr. P. E. Pierce, Physician to the Poor Slaves. It is with a happy heart that I pen these lines to acknowledge that you and your Golden Medical Discovery and Purgative Pellets are blessings to the world. These medicines cannot be too highly praised, for they have done enough to earn the name of the "Miracle." Three months ago I was broken out with large ulcers and sores on my body, limbs and face, I procured your Golden Medical Discovery and Purgative Pellets, and taken six bottles, and to-day I am in good health, and those only under the care of your medicine. I am in a natural, healthy condition. I thought at one time I could not be cured. Although I can but poorly express my gratitude to you, yet there is a drop of joy in every word I write. God's blessing rest on you and your wonderful medicines is the humble prayer of

Yours truly, JAMES O. BELLIS,

When a medicine will promptly cure such terrible living ulcers and sores, which can longer doubt its wonderful virtue. Dr. Pierce however, does not wish to place his Golden Medical Discovery in the catalogue of quack patent medicines, nor does he wish to be the author of the same. Three months ago I was broken out with large ulcers and sores on my body, limbs and face, I procured your Golden Medical Discovery and Purgative Pellets, and taken six bottles, and to-day I am in good health, and those only under the care of your medicine. The world has ever pined for a safe article before did this. As far as I can learn, there is nothing like it. No family or stock-keeper can afford to be without your stock—what can afford to be without your stock? Price, 50 cents, large bottle $1. J. B. ROSS & CO., 33 Broadway, New York.
